

How much energy is required to separate these objects an infinite distance from each other?

