

Shown below is a cross-section of a sphere made of an insulator (such as plastic) that has a spherical cavity in it. Fixed in position in the cavity is a positive charge  $+q$ . Points P and S are both one cm away from the surface of the sphere.

Three students considering this situation make the following statements.

